1	Narrator 1:	There once was a lighthouse whose bright, shining beam was the lightest and brightest folks had ever seen.
	Narrator 2:	He was faded and rusty and not very tall, but that didn't bother the lighthouse at all.
	Lighthouse:	To warn the boats of danger, I ring my bell loud. I am quite important! I am very proud!
	Narrator 1:	Each morning the lighthouses friends would appear. Sometimes they whistled. Sometimes they cheered.
2	Steamship:	Well, hooty-toot-toot! And how do you do?
	Narrator 2:	Said the big steamship from the water so blue.
3	Canoe:	Well, hello my friends! What a day for a glide!
	Narrator 1:	Said the slender canoe taking folks for a ride.
4	Tugboat:	Chug, chug, chug, and cheerio!
	Narrator 2:	Said the tug who had quite a long way to go.

	Narrator 1:	When night came, the lighthouse keeper arrived to make the now quiet lighthouse come alive.
5	Lighthouse Keeper:	It's my job to keep the lighthouse shining bright so he can warn ships in the darkness of night.
6	Narrator 2:	The lighthouse then flashed his bright beam of light. He rang his bell with all his might.
	Lighthouse:	Watch out for rocks! Please keep away! Watch me closely, so safe you'll stay.
7	Narrator 1:	One day some workers came to dig in the river which was so big.
	Narrator 2:	They planted steel beams in the river floor. They rested a bit, then planted some more.
8	Narrator 1:	The beams stretched up high and before they were through, The steel beams were crossing the water so blue!
9	Bridge Builder 1:	We build beams over the river wide.
	Bridge Builder 2:	So people can reach the other side.
10	Lighthouse:	What is this strange new sight? Somehow I don't feel quite right.

1 1	Narrator 2:	The workers stopped building late one day. And there stood a bridge that was big and gray.
	Lighthouse:	That big bridge sure is tall! But now I feel incredibly small.
1 2	Narrator 1:	Then the bridge gave off a beam of light, and the lighthouse felt a terrible fright.
1 3	Lighthouse:	Oh no! She is much brighter than me! She is much easier for boats to see! I don't feel needed anymore. The bridge can guide boats to shore.
1 4	Narrator 2:	The lighthouse sniffled. Then he cried. He felt so very sad inside.
	Narrator 1:	When night came, the lighthouse began to fret. The lighthouse keeper had not come yet.
	Lighthouse:	Without my lighthouse-keeper friend, my fun job has come to an end. I guess the keeper stayed at home because the bridge can do it alone.
1 5	Narrator 2:	Just then the wind began to blow. It tossed the tug boat to and fro.

	Tugboat:	Oh, where is the lighthouse's shining light? I need it to guide me on this stormy night.
1 6	Narrator 1:	Just when the tug thought he had reached the docks, CRASH! He went tumbling against the rocks.
1 7	Narrator 2:	The bridge saw this and she began to shout down to the lighthouse whose light was still out.
	Bridge:	Hello there, my friend. Why don't you blink? Without your beam the ships will sink.
1 8	Lighthouse:	But I thought that your light was enough to guide the boats when the water is rough.
1 9	Bridge:	I shine for airplanes, the boats of the sky. Your light shines down low and my light shines up high.
2 0	Narrator 1:	Just then the lighthouse keeper appeared. When the lighthouse saw him he let out a cheer.
2 1	Lighthouse:	Where have you been? You gave me a scare. I could not tell the boats to beware.

	Lighthouse Keeper:	I lost my keys, but now they're found. We sure missed your light and sound.
22	Bridge:	You see, my friend. Please have no doubt. Your light is something boats can't do without.
23	Tugboat:	That is for sure. You're telling me! If your light had shown I'd have been able to see.
24	Narrator 1:	Just then the steamship and canoe came by.
	Narrator 2	The wanted to cheer up that sad little guy.
	Steamship:	You are our lighthouse. You are our friend.
	Canoe:	We never want your job to end.
25	Lighthouse:	So, even though I'm short and small, I am still needed after all.
	All:	Yes, you are still needed after all.
THE END

The Little Red Lighthouse, officially Jeffrey's Hook Light, is a small lighthouse located in Fort Washington Park along the Hudson River in Manhattan, New York City, under the George Washington Bridge. It was made notable by the 1942 children's book The Little Red Lighthouse and the Great Gray Bridge by Hildegard Swift, illustrated by Lynd Ward. The lighthouse stands on Jeffrey's Hook, a small point of land that supports the base of the eastern pier of the bridge, which connects Washington Heights to the Little Red Lighthouse and the Great Gray Bridge.
