Both types of schools have their own social benefits along with their negatives. However, it is evidently of more social benefits to attend a co-education school than to attend a single sex school. Firstly, co-ed schools provide an environment for students to develop the interpersonal skills needed when they join in the labor force. It allows them to understand how men and women interact with each other. A national survey that was taken 2005-2006 displays that 79% of Canadian parents with children in co-ed schools see eye to eye that these schools better reflect the diversity of our society. T...Â Co Educational schools are the source to prepare you for that. 4.0. 2 votes. Education plays an important role in our life. However, some people consider it only a necessary step in getting a job so they do not want to go to university after leaving school. "Knowledge is power" as the famous proverb says. It is transferred from generation to generation and comprises different facts, skills and information. Through learning people get knowledge and experience accumulated by their ancestors.Â There is still a lot of argument if punishment must be used in schools. Traditionally pupils are punished for poor progress, cutting lessons, lying, untidiness or rudeness. But some parents think that schools have very strict rules and that teachers sometimes demand too much. In this essay we will discuss advantages and disadvantages of separate and co-education of both genders.Â In some nations, younger and teenagers get education in separate schools while other countries prefer co-education. In this essay we will discuss advantages and disadvantages of separate and co-education of both genders. First of all, in teenagers there were many problems which the elders need to control and have proper check on them. Education plays a great role in the mind and character building of both male and females. Those nations, which provide separate education for boys and girls, have the opportunity to maintain disciplines in both boys and girls, and most of the time they will give
